American Paratroopers Land on Choiseul Island

Spearhead Drive To Force Japs From Solomons

Bougainville Next Goal of Americans

By OLEN CLEMENTS

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTH WEST PACIFIC, Saturday, Oct. 30 (P)—American paratroopers, spearheading a drive to clear the Japanese from all the Solomons, landed Thursday morning at the village of Voza on Southwestern Choiseul Island and the Japanese there fled north without offering a fight.

This second invasion move in as many days increased the threat to Bougainville, the last big enemy island barring the way to Japan's key Southwest Pacific fortress of Rabaul, New Britain.

Airfield Bombed

Bougainville's southern airfields already had been bombed out and unable to figure in the opposition and headquarters in announcing the Choiseul strike today, reported a heavy attack by lightning-screened Mitchells on the Buka airfield north of Bougainville, during which 200 Japanese working on the runway were killed, seven grounded planes were destroyed and four others damaged.

Bougainville is approximately 100 miles northwest of the paratroop landing scene on Choiseul but it is less than fifty miles from that island's northern tip.

A spokesman for South Pacific headquarters of Adm. William F. Halsey, who is in command of the Solomons forces, said only a few hundred Japanese were on Mono. Allied forces are taking steps to prevent their evacuation.

Japs in Retreat

Elaborating on General MacArthur's reports, he said the Japanese had retreated to Malsi village at Lae Point, about four miles from the Allied landing point and across the elevated portion of heavily wooded Mono. Allied patrols now are moving up the beach along an eight-mile route.

The landings on Choiseul occurred near the Japanese barge staging area. It was to Choiseul that many remnants of the Japanese troops driven out of the Central Solomons were evacuated, with Bougainville their ultimate destination.

Wheeler Opposes Ties with Europe

Sees U. S. Dragged Into Another War

By HOWARD W. FLIEGER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (P)—Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) pleaded with the Senate today to reject the Connally postwar resolution, arguing that ties with Europe could mean that "we'll again be dragged" into war.

Wheeler's argument, painting a picture of Russia and Britain quarreling over control of Europe after peace comes, was presented for the most part to empty desks in the Senate chamber.

"If we talk about protecting the United States and her interests a lot of people are immediately accused of almost treason," Wheeler declared in his fight against the declaration of certainty that the Senate is going to approve some sort of a postwar policy resolution.

The only question remaining as the debate wore through the fifth day was whether the resolution would be passed.

"Political Chicanery" Is Accepted Policy of Democrats, Says Willkie

PATTERSON, N. J., Oct. 29 (P)—Wendell Willkie declared tonight "political chicanery" had become "the accepted technique of the Democratic party."

The Republican party's 1940 candidate for president scored what he termed the "high profession and low performance" of the Democrats in a speech prepared for a political rally on behalf of Walter E. Edge, Republican nominee for governor of New Jersey.

Willkie said he entered the New Jersey fight because Mayor Vincent J. Murphy of Newark, Democratic candidate and secretary-treasurer of the New Jersey Federation of Labor (AFL) had misrepresented the Willkie opinion of Edge, former

H. L. Mencken Finds No Naughty Words Or Any Obscene Pictures in Esquire

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (P)—Henry L. Mencken, author and language expert, today sprang to the defense of Esquire magazine, accused by the Post Office department of using naughty words and pictures.

Replying to a suggestion by Calvin Hassell, postal attorney, that the word "backside" was improper, Mencken asserted "I didn't know anyone had an obscene enough mind to consider that word obscene."

"I didn't know any other word," he added, "until I was four years old—when I became sophisticated."

He also defended use of the term "bawdy house," saying it first appeared in dictionaries in 1552 "and there is no mark in the dictionary to indicate that it is an indecent word."

"Bawdy house" was used in a column written by George Jean Nathan and published by Esquire. Hassell asked Mencken if he knew Nathan.

"Bawdy House" Proper

"We have been intimate friends for forty years, and he is really at bottom a very strict and rather proper fellow," Mencken replied.

"Will you tell us, please, what is Mr. Nathan's reputation as a critic," Hassell directed.

"Well, that's pretty hard. His reputation among his customers and readers is that he is not only the best living American critic, but the best that has ever existed."

"His reputation among actors and theatrical managers is that he is the worst. A critic's reputation is a delicate thing. I was a critic myself once."

Mencken appeared at a post office department hearing on the question whether Esquire's second class mailing privileges should be revoked.

Accused Once Himself

The questioning got around to the fact that some years back when Mencken was editor of the American Mercury that magazine was barred from the mails because it published a story called "Hat-Rack."

Mencken called it a "purely imaginary order" because the magazine already had gone through the mails. "So I went to court on that," he related, "and I had injunctions against the post office by two federal judges, both of whom denounced the post office as obscene, indecent, unfair and ignominious."

"I agreed with the verdict thoroughly and believe it was just to this minute."

Clark's Troops Gain in Italy

Advance on Hitler's Mountain Fortress

By NOLAN NORGARD

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGERIA, Oct. 29 (P)—American and British troops, struggling up 1,600-foot slopes with fixed bayonets against massed German artillery, reached a position today to apply a powerful cut-off play against the mighty mountain fortress into which the enemy has converted Masicco ridge on the southwestern end of the Italian front.

Li Gen. Mark W. Clark's American infantry, advancing through a driving rain, smashed three miles beyond Sparanise, and official reports from the front said they were threatening the road junction of Teano, from which a highway passes northward of lofty Masicco ridge away.

Advance in Mountains

Five miles south of Teano other Fifth army units already had seized Francolise, on a main highway that also stabs through the mountains just north of the Masicco fortress. These two forces, by converging and pushing through the available pass, would isolate German troops on Masicco, anchor of the entire Romel defense line.

While Allied ground forces moved into position before the strongest line the Nazis have yet established in Italy, the United States navy applied pressure on the seaward side of the ridge. An American cruiser and destroyers stood off in the darkness Wednesday night and poured shells into the enemy's line of communications along the ancient Appian Way in the Minturno area, some twelve miles north of the front.

Coastal Force Delayed

The Fifth army's coastal flank still was held up by elaborate German defenses along the Regia canal, only four miles north of the Volturno. British troops, which landed from the sea had, for the most part, been unable to cross this barrier.

At the other extremity of the front that bisects the peninsula, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery sent his British and Canadian forces toward the mountainous inland sector toward the upper reaches of the Trigno river, while near its mouth British troops clung tenaciously to the front.

Russians Shatter German Defenses

Cossacks Slash Nazi Positions

By JUDSON O'QUINN

LONDON, Saturday, Oct. 30 (P)—Red army troops of the Noisak steppe converged on the lower Dnieper river stronghold of Nikopol today after shattering a German defense line twenty-five miles to the southeast yesterday and also pounded a demoralized enemy back to the approaches of the imperiled Crimea, Moscow announced.

Paced by Cossack cavalrymen who slashed the enemy far in the rear of every improvised German rear guard stand, the Russians swept through eight more villages, smashing fifteen-mile gains which put them within thirty miles of the Sivash salt marshes bordering the northeastern gateway to the Crimea, and within fifty miles of the Perekop bottleneck at the northwestern corner of the peninsula.

Second Army Gains

Inside the Dnieper bend another Red army under General Rodion Y. Malinovsky, striking thirty miles southwest of Dnepropetrovsk, gained six miles to capture Alexandrovka, only forty-two miles north of Nikopol, said a communique recorded by the Soviet monitor.

This two-way threat to Nikopol by the steppe army under General Feodor Tolbukhin and the units

Sec. Knox Points To Sea Victories

Finds Submarines Less of Menace

By HAMILTON W. FARON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (P)—Two-front progress in submarine warfare, covering new victories for American and new evidence of successes over German U-boats in the Atlantic, was announced today by Secretary of the Navy Knox.

Knox released at his press conference a communique reporting the sinking of ten Japanese vessels and the damage of four in the Western Pacific-China sea area through which runs Japan's most vital supply lines. This raised to 474 the number of the enemy's ships sunk, possibly sunk, or damaged in America's undersea war of attrition.

Cancels Ship Plans

Simultaneously the secretary reported that conditions in the Atlantic, where Nazi U-boats have been trying to slash Allied supply lines to Europe, have improved so greatly that the navy is discontinuing plans for building 427 anti-submarine vessels.

Presumably the shipways and materials which would have been used for these ships, ranging from 110-foot subchasers to big destroyer escorts, will be devoted instead, such as landing craft which cover about the same size ranges.

Knox's twin reports on submarine fighting pointed up clearly the ex-

Ruthless Nazis Order New Blood Bath for Czechs

Horror of Lidice May Be Repeated

By A. I. GOLDBERG

LONDON, Oct. 29 (P)—A new blood bath for Czechoslovakia recalling the horror of Lidice has been ordered by the ruthless Nazi rulers, the Czechoslovak information bureau said today, and other conquered countries also reported a tightening of the Germans' stern grip.

Death sentences were meted out to 519 Czech patriots at Olomouc (Olmütz) in Moravia for what the drumhead Nazi courts charged were "acts of terror and sabotage" and apparently indicated a general upsurge in the important rail center which once was recognized as the Moravian capital and had a population of 65,000.

50,000 Patriots Executed

It was the largest mass death sentence yet imposed at one place in Czechoslovakia, where 50,000 patriots have been executed according to Czech records in London. The infamous trial of Lidice resulted in the execution of 483 adult males following the slayings of the Nazi "hangerman" Reinhardt Heydrich.

From other sources came additional reports that the Germans have abandoned efforts to sell the "new order" to the conquered peoples of Europe as unrest everywhere increases.

A state of emergency again has been imposed on once-placid Copenhagen, the Danish capital where Nazi stormtroopers no longer dare walk the streets alone at night.

Uprisings in France

Spreading uprisings in France have caused Berlin to admit openly that a shake-up in the Laval government is imminent.

A new problem also has arisen in the Baltic states where a food shortage is developing. Refugees have been crowding into Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania to escape the battle zone as Russian troops advance ever closer, but travelers coming from those countries said the Germans have requisitioned all possible food supplies for shipment to the Reich, leaving no stocks for the swelling population.

Execution of a Prussian mayor, August Barsch of Gussow, for listening to BBC in his office and "trying to stir up the people of his town by spreading false news" was announced today by the German radio.

Army Relief Gets Million Dollar Check

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (P)—Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., announced today that a check for $1,000,000—the first installment of the proceeds from the film "This Is the Army"—had been turned over to army emergency relief, and predicted that by January 1 the film will have netted $5,000,000 for the fund.

Warner Bros. deduct only production and distribution costs from the total returns.

As a stage show, "This Is the Army" earned $2,000,000 for the fund.

Yanks Must Stop Necking in London

LONDON, Oct. 29 (P)—Necking in London doorways—even in the blackout—will bring arrest on the spot, American soldiers were warned today in a campaign launched by military police to improve the conduct, military courtesy and personal appearance of United States forces in this area.

Maj. Graham Dougherty, Berryville, Va., provost marshal, said the aim was to make the soldiers "conscious of regulations which must be observed under any conditions."

New York CIO Condemns Lewis As "Totally Unfit for Leadership"

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 29 (P)—The New York State CIO today condemned John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers as "totally unfit for any place of leadership in the labor movement" and asserted admission of Lewis into the American Federation of Labor would be a "grave disservice to all of labor and the whole nation."

The condemnation was contained in a resolution adopted at the fifth annual state convention. It pledged "full support to the just demands of the mine workers" and called upon the Lewis union to live up to its no strike pledge and to join with the rest of labor in fighting for revision of the little steel formula and a price rollback.

The Lewis resolution maintained that through Lewis' "reckless use of the strike weapon," he was "primarily responsible" for enactment of the Smith-Connally act.

Food Prices Held Stable, FDR Says

Jones Appointed To Allied Board

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (P)—Consumer food prices have been held stable in the last few months, President Roosevelt declared today in a press-radio conference at which he also disclosed:

(1) He has named War Food Administrator Marvin Jones the American member of an enlarged Anglo-American combined food board, thereby giving Jones a greater voice in determining Allied policies on food production, procurement and distribution.

(2) Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, whom Jones replaces as the American member, will become the board's non-voting head.

(3) Hereafter Canada will have a representative on the board, along with Great Britain and the United States.

Some Foods Lower

Mr. Roosevelt said the actual cost of food in the last three months—a period which largely covers the tenure of Jones as food administrator—has gone up not at all or but a tiny percentage. The cost of some items, he added, has gone down a tiny percentage.

He told the conference that he expected to send to Congress Monday his long-awaited message on food. That message is expected to express the administration's determination to proceed with price subsidies despite opposition of a powerful Congressional farm bloc which prefers higher farm prices.

By replacing Wickard with Jones as the American representative on this board, the president moved to eliminate any possibility of a conflict between domestic food programs and policies—which are a responsibility of Jones—and those which otherwise might be advocated by Secretary Wickard, who now exercises no authority over this country's food programs.

Meanwhile, the administration's food policies underwent attack on Capitol Hill. The Senate agriculture committee, which is headed by Doughton, remarked to newspapermen later: "I don't like it at all. I felt the same way about the treasury program. From what I said I think Mr. Eccles would come to the conclusion that I was against his program."

As outlined by committee members, the federal reserve chairman's program would provide:

1. $10,000,000,000 from individual incomes, with $4,000,000,000 refundable after the war. The normal individual income rate would be raised from 6 to 10 per cent, personal exemptions lowered from $500 to $400 for single persons, from $1,200 to $800 for married couples and from $400 to $250 for each child. The victory tax would be repealed and a super-surplus tax imposed.

2. $3,000,000,000 through additional excise taxes on so-called luxuries.

Domestic Sizes Of Coal Frozen To Supply Homes

Crane Operators May Be Drafted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (P)—To assure supplies of heating fuel for communities on a basis of need, the Solid Fuels Administration for War today ordered the freezing of domestic sizes of bituminous and anthracite coal in cars at the mine pending distribution orders.

The order does not apply to coal in transit or on main railroad lines, but it prohibits shipment from the mine of all anthracite sizes larger than barley and all bituminous double-screened and prepared sizes. Bituminous slack and screenings are free to move.

Officials said the order should produce almost immediately a pool of a million tons of bituminous and 150,000 tons of anthracite.

New Tax Plans Quickly Killed

Eccles's Program Promptly Spurned

By FRANCIS M. LE MAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (P)—A $13,800,000,000 additional tax and compulsory savings program, including a war-time surtax, was proposed to the House Ways and Means committee today by Marriner S. Eccles, Federal Reserve chairman, and was immediately scrapped.

The committee, which thus far has voted to raise only $2,000,000,000 in new revenue despite a treasury request for $10,500,000,000, showed no disposition to follow Eccles' recommendations, notwithstanding his warnings that the nation is threatened by inflation.

Committee members reported that Chairman Doughton (D-NC) told Eccles his program was "amazing, fantastic and visionary." The program was discussed by Eccles at an executive committee session.

Doughton Opposed

Doughton remarked to newspapermen later: "I don't like it at all. I felt the same way about the treasury program. From what I said I think Mr. Eccles would come to the conclusion that I was against his program."

As outlined by committee members, the federal reserve chairman's program would provide:

Crane Operators May Be Drafted

Baltimore Board Furnished Names

BALTIMORE, Oct. 29 (P)—J. M. Willis, vice-president and general manager of the Bethlehem-Fairfield Shipyard, Inc., announced today that it was turning over to local draft boards the names of all crane operators involved in a ten-day work stoppage stemming from a demand for extra pay for extra lifts.

The order does not apply to coal in transit or on main railroad lines, but it prohibits shipment from the mine of all anthracite sizes larger than barley and all bituminous double-screened and prepared sizes. Bituminous slack and screenings are free to move.

Officials said the order should produce almost immediately a pool of a million tons of bituminous and 150,000 tons of anthracite.

Mr. Willis, vice president and general manager, said he had been "today requested by the selective service organization to send the names of all striking crane operators at the Bethlehem-Fairfield Shipyard. The names of the strikers are being sent in today as requested to the various selective service boards with which the strikers are registered."

A company spokesman, in response to questions, said the requests were made by various local draft boards. Col. Henry C. Stanwood, state selective service director, said "we did not ask anybody for the names of any strikers."

More than 100 operators were involved in the work stoppage. They declined to return to work unless all strikers were reinstated without penalty or discrimination but the shipyard management refused to rehire three leaders. The crane operators are members of the International Union of Operating Engineers, an AFL affiliate.

Committee members reported that Chairman Doughton (D-NC) told Eccles his program was "amazing, fantastic and visionary." The program was discussed by Eccles at an executive committee session.

Doughton remarked to newspapermen later: "I don't like it at all. I felt the same way about the treasury program. From what I said I think Mr. Eccles would come to the conclusion that I was against his program."

O'Connor Announces State Income Tax Reduction of $4,815,000

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 29 (P)—The governor said that at the beginning of the present fiscal year on July 1, the state had accumulated a greater surplus than had been anticipated.

From the surplus, he continued, the legislature had appropriated amounts totaling $8,000,000 for postwar and emergency funds and for teachers and state employees bonus and salary adjustments.

After providing for a working fund of $2,000,000, there remained approximately $1,800,000. The surplus resulted from reversions of unspent appropriations in the various departments and agencies, and from increased revenues over the estimated amounts.

Says He Will Take Action To Get Coal Mined

Appeals To Men To Ignore Chiefs

By J. W. DAVIS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (P)—President Roosevelt, saying that a letdown of coal production is not to be tolerated, declared tonight that the striking coal miners must accept the War Labor Board's wage decisions as final.

"If they do not," he said, "I shall take decisive action to see that coal is mined."

Committee Meets Monday

While the number of striking miners went past the 80,000 mark, and the United Mine Workers high command arranged a meeting Monday on the WLB's decision which UMW President John L. Lewis has rejected, Mr. Roosevelt wrote Chairman W. H. Davis of the WLB:

"We are short of coal to meet our war needs. We must have more coal. We can no more tolerate the letting down of coal production than we can tolerate letting down of the shipping of supplies to our fighting men."

Mr. Roosevelt said, however, he would not take "decisive action until after the meeting of the policy committee of the miners next Monday."

He thus checked up to Lewis and his associates a decision on whether to stop the nation's fourth coal strike of the year now.

And at the same time he appealed to the miners indirectly to disregard any of their leaders who counsel against the War Labor Board's recommendations, saying:

"Certainly in war time, the miners will not take the position that they will sign no contract other than one dictated by their leaders, we are at war, and all of us must make sacrifices for our common good and common safety."

And, to offset Lewis' report to his membership that the WLB's decision against the proposed Illinois mine wage agreement (which

Moscow Parleys Please Roosevelt

Great Success, President Says

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (P)—President Roosevelt, describing the objective of the Moscow conference as peace in the world and an end to aggression, said today it has been a tremendous success.

Beaming and obviously elated over the reports from the American-British-Russian meeting, the chief executive told a press-radio conference that it was a great success not only in the definite agreements reached but in the spirit—it was, to use a nautical term, a happy ship.

Mr. Roosevelt also said:

1. The Moscow conference has reached the stage where the agreements are being reduced to formal documents which will be made public later, probably from Moscow.

Thomas E. Conlon, Former Speaker Of House of Delegates, Summoned

Well Known for Many Activities in State Affairs

DIES SUDDENLY

Thomas E. Conlon

BALTIMORE, Oct. 29 (AP).—A heart attack ended today the career of Thomas E. Conlon, 60-year-old city council president who was general tax agent for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and three times speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates.

Conlon was stricken and died during a meeting of the city board of estimates, only a matter of minutes after he had danced a little jig in an outer office in response to an inquiry about his health.

The railroad-politician had been employed all of his adult life by the B. and O. He joined the railroad at the age of seventeen in his home town of Toledo, O.

Praised by O'Connor

At Annapolis, Governor Herbert R. O'Connor paying tribute to Conlon, declared that "not only was he a painstaking and valuable public servant, but as a man, in his everyday contacts with those about him, he was an example of honor and sincerity."

From the outset, I had the highest admiration of his sterling qualities of mind and heart, as well as for his devotion to the duties of his office. He was a true servant of the people in the highest sense of the term.

Noted throughout political and legislative circles as an affable, sincere leader, Conlon was equally well-known for his ability to calmly and quietly control the often noisy and uproarious House of Delegates.

"Chip Off Old Block"

He once said that he was a "chip off the old block," remarking that "my father was with the New York Central Railroad for fifty years, so I guess I naturally ended the same profession when I left school."

While railroading was his occupation, his advocacy was politics. At the age of 42, in 1925, he decided to study law and entered the charter class at the University of Baltimore. Although graduated in 1928, he waited for two years until one of his six children, Thomas E. Jr., finished law school so they could take the bar examination together. Both passed, and they became the first father and son ever to be admitted to the Maryland bar at the same time.

It was, after he became a lawyer that Conlon entered politics.

Elected to House

While on a vacation in California in 1934, he was elected to the House of Delegates from the Fifth Baltimore city district. On the democratic ticket, and he soon became one of its most popular members. He was reelected in 1938 and 1942. Conlon resigned as speaker of the House earlier this year and was elected president of the Baltimore city council.

Once a semi-pro baseball player, Conlon confined himself in later years to Sunday golf and his hobbies—chicken raising, gardening, and contract bridge. He once said his greatest thrill was the making of a "grand slam in no trump."

He also once remarked that his greatest achievement was "the fact that Mrs. Conlon and I have raised and educated our six children."

A Catholic, he was a member of the All Saints Church, the Knights of Columbus, the Bar Association and the Optimist Club.

Employed by B. & O.

Conlon joined the Baltimore and Ohio railroad as a stenographer in the division freight office at Toledo. In November, 1903 he was transferred to the General freight office at Pittsburgh, and in May, 1906 was made secretary to the general freight agent there.

He was married to Marcella Elizabeth Quigley of Pittsburgh May 27, 1908.

Tanks Almost Useless

Daniel DeLuce, Associated Press correspondent at that front, said Montgomery's troops, facing "mud and mountains in seemingly inexhaustible quantities, were encountering their toughest going since they entered Italy Sept. 3. "Not one offensive, but several, will be necessary before the Eighth army can hope to see the seven hills of the Eternal City," DeLuce wrote. "Tanks are an almost useless luxury in this sector."

Today's advances said Montgomery's veterans were lashing bitterly with the enemy near the town of San Salvo, two miles north of the Trigno river and three miles inland from the Adriatic, with the Germans apparently still in possession of the town and surrounding heights.

Fifteen miles inland Eighth army units occupied Montefalco after a five-mile advance from Castelmauro, and still farther inland Canadian regiments fought their way into Molise, a town perched on a 2,500-foot mountain eighteen miles east of the important communications center of L'Aquila.

Both Allied fighters and bombers braved the unsettled weather across the front to attack enemy gun and troop positions, road junctions, train bridges and airfields. "Two Nazi planes were shot down while, as frequently occurs in recent weeks, the Allies did not lose a single craft."

The first official report from the raid by heavy northwest Allied air force bombers on Austria last Sunday disclosed that considerable damage was done to rail facilities at Ebendorf, some thirty miles from Vienna. The bombers escorted by Italian-based fighters escorted

New Offensive Probable

Zaporozhe is forty miles north-east of Nikolai, and the Russians were silent about this new outpouring of men and materials. Moscow's silence is habitual until her offensives are well under way.

The communists' midnight supplement said the Russians under General Tolbukhin cracked a German line of trenches, minefields, and barbed wire erected in the Balki Malaya-Beylozerka sector, and went on to take Bolshoi-Beylozerka, within twenty-five miles of the river crossing leading to the west bank manganese center of Nikolai.

the UMW wanted applied to the whole industry meant a decrease in hourly rates. The president set forth this argument:

"The board has indicated, he said, that it will approve the Illinois contract with modifications, which will give the miners $34.00 for a fifty-one hour portal-to-portal, six-day week, which is $8.50 a week more than they are now receiving for forty-two hours actual work at their working places in the mines. It is about $2.50 less per week than they would receive under the Illinois contract as it was submitted. But we must recall that already $1.50 per week has been added to the rates prevailing under the old contract by reason of the adjustments previously allowed by the board."

All Doubts Removed

The board has resolved every reasonable doubt with respect to the requirements of the stabilization program in favor of the miners' demands.

"There is no basis," said the president, "for the assertion that the board's proposals involve in any way a reduction in the basic rates that the miners are receiving. On the contrary, the assertion ignores the fact that the present basic rates are for production work at their working places, and make no allowances for travel time (underground) as such. Under the board's proposal the miners for the first time will receive pay for travel time as such."

Second Coal Crisis

Once before this year the president has ordered government seizure and operation of the coal mines to assure continued production.

The mines were operated for a while by Interior Secretary Ickes as federal boss but the last of them were returned to their owners this month. Ickes has expressed fear of runaway strikes unless a contract is agreed upon by Oct. 31, and other federal officials have described the need for continued production to keep war industries going.

Sunday, the War Production Board said a "serious setback" for the armed forces could result from prolongation of the shutdowns.

Mr. Roosevelt touched on the patriotism note in concluding his letter to Davis thusly:

"I am confident that when the patriotic American miners realize the substantial increase in benefits the board's proposal offers them they will not reject the opportunity to secure a contract."

"But if I am mistaken and the miners do not accept the board's proposals, I shall take decisive action to see that coal is mined."

ALL-BRAN is not a "purgative," does not "sweep you out!" It's a gentle-acting, "regulating" food.

If this is your trouble eat ALL-BRAN regularly. Drink plenty of water! See if you don't cheer its welcome relief! And don't forget—KELLLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is highly nutritious. NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (AP)—Stocks generally were subjected to further profit cashing in today's market although late support reduced many early losses of 1 to 4 points and enabled scattered favorites to emerge on their side.

Hesitancy was the rule at the start. While dealings were slack throughout, the main body of pivots backed into the losing ranks by mid-day. Prices revived here and there in the wake of President Roosevelt's optimistic comments on the Moscow conference but declines were well in the majority at the close.

Transfers totaled 668,010 shares against 714,510 the day before.

United Merchants & Manufacturers was up 2 1/2 at a new 1943 top. Farnworth Television was admitted to the big board today, and in active transactions, showed an advance of about a point from its previous over-the-counter quotation. Modest plus marks were retained by Standard Oil of Cal., Baltimore and Ohio, Allied Chemical, Gypsum, Woolworth, Montgomery Ward, General Motors and International Telephone.

Losers included U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Santa Fe, Great Northern, Southern Railway, Boeing, United Aircraft, Eastman Kodak, Johns-Manville, Philip Morris, Standard Oil (N.J.), Texas Co., Anaconda, U. S. Rubber, American Telephone and General Electric and du Pont.

In the Curb Brown-Forman declined.

tilers jumped 5 points and modest improvement was exhibited by Technicolor, American Gas and Pennroad. Easier were Cuban Atlantic Sugar, Electric Bond & Share, International Petroleum and Carrier Corp. The aggregate here was 192,980 shares versus 212,375 yesterday.

The bond market engaged in a series of sidewise movements that left the main trend cloudy today. The rails averaged a little higher, although there were numerous losers in the group. Industrials and utilities leaned to the upside slightly and other departments held about stationary.

Sales of $8,476,700 compared with $9,738,900 on Thursday when few important changes were registered except among special situations.

U. S. governments and most of the investment rated corporates had a quiet day with changes either way unimportant.

LaSalle Scores Twice in Final Quarter To Top Ridgeley, 24-13

Explorers Take to the Air; Blackhawk Touchdowns Come on Long Runs

Taking to the air lanes, the LaSalle High Explorers struck for two touchdowns in the final period and came from behind to top the Ridgeley High Blackhaws, 24-13, in a thrilling grid battle last night at the Fort Hill stadium.

Long runs by two Ridgeley backs produced both the Blackhawk touchdowns in the first half and LaSalle, trailing 13-12 at the intermission, came back in the final period to sew up the game.

Midway in the first period, Ridgeley's Ken Carder cut through right tackle and sprinted down the left side of the field behind some nice blocking for sixty-four yards and the game's first score. Carder accounted for the extra point from placement.

Ridgeley gained possession of the ball when Carder's kick to the Ridgeley thirty-seven was fumbled by Joe Carter and the Blackhaws recovered on their own thirty-six.

Explorers Stopped on Six Taking the kickoff, the Explorers, with Clay "Red" Ingram sparking the attack, marched from their own thirty-seven to the Ridgeley six where the drive halted when Tommy Geatz's fourth-down pass intended for Jim Fahey just missed connections.

The Blackhaws kicked on first down. Carder's boot being returned ten yards by Carter to the Ridgeley thirty-eight. Tommy Geatz made five at right tackle. Bill Nelson one at right guard and Tommy Geatz hit left guard for a first on the twenty. Francis Passarelli, on a reverse, gained five and Tommy Geatz put the ball on the seven with an eight-yard sprint around right end. Passarelli then toured left end for the final seven yards but Jack Steiner, rushed into the game to attempt to kick the point, missed the first of four consecutive tries.

LaSalle took a 12-7 lead and held it only momentarily toward the close of the second quarter after a Ridgeley lateral missed fire and Nelson, of the Explorers, recovered the ball on the LaSalle thirty-five. On the first play, Tommy Geatz passed twenty-five yards to Passarelli, who took the oval on the Ridgeley forty and galloped for a touchdown.

Kickoff Returned 80 Yards One of the longest runs of the year at the local stadium, an eighty-yard sprint by Ridgeley's Jim Campbell, went for a touchdown on the kickoff which followed LaSalle's second score. Campbell took Passarelli's boot on the Ridgeley twenty and sticking close to the sidelines, didn't stop until he reached the LaSalle goal. Jim Phillips fumbled trying to add the extra point.

LaSalle had a drive from its thirty-four halted by a fumble of the Ridgeley sixteen early in the third round but later in the session, the Explorers started an eighty-one yard march for what proved to be the winning points.

After Phillips got off a quick kick to the LaSalle twenty, Carter returning to the twenty-nine, Tommy Geatz, Passarelli and Nelson teamed up to register first downs on the Explorer forty-seven and the Ridgeley forty. Geatz made four at right tackle as the third quarter came to a close.

Passes Help Explorers A pass, Tommy Geatz to Carter, produced twelve yards and a first down on the twenty-four and after Passarelli made six at left end, Geatz tossed another heave to Carter, this time for sixteen yards and a first down on the two. On the third play of the series, Tommy Geatz went over from the one. A blocked kick late in the game set up the final LaSalle touchdown. Carder's punt being blocked and the ball going out of bounds on the Ridgeley ten. Tommy Geatz, after making three at left guard, passed to Norman Geatz for the final seven.

LaSalle gained 235 yards by rushing to the Ridgeley 137 and made 107 yards on passes, completing five of eight. The Blackhaws connected one of two forwards for three yards. The Explorers had a fifteen to three edge in first downs and lost only four yards from scrimmage to Ridgeley's fifteen. The only penalty of the game was a five-yard offside called against the losers. Keyser, Romney Elevens Battle To 7-7 Deadlock

Meeting of Conference May Be Necessary To Decide Title

KEYSER, W. Va., Oct. 29.—The Keyser High Golden Tornado and the Romney High Elevens, each sporting an unbeaten Potomac Valley Conference record, clashed here this afternoon but the game, a 7-7 deadlock, failed to do much toward bringing the title out in the open.

Keyser, which had won four straight conference games today, holds first place only because it has played one more game than the Romney. Each club has one more conference title scheduled and if leaders record victories, then it will take a meeting of the conference to decide if the crown is to be shared or if one of the schools is to get the championship.

The heavier and slightly-favored Romney outfit pushed the Tornado all over the field but after threatening a number of times to score a second touchdown, had to be satisfied with a tie.

Keyser Holds on Three Romney manufactured its seven points early in the second quarter after seeing the ball on downs on the Keyser three, and the Tornado came right back to ring up its touchdown in the same session and then stave off numerous Pioneer threats.

After holding on the three, Keyser kicked with Robert Broome punting to his forty-five. Frank Martin picked up a dozen yards and Junior Hamilton, Romney's backfield ace, gained thirteen more on two line plays. Keister moved the ball to fifteen and the quarter ended.

Hamilton got away for seven yards on the play opening the second stanza and dashed across the Keyser goal on an eight-yard sprint. The Romney fullback then kicked the important extra point.

Keyser was unable to get anywhere following the kickoff and Romney, on fourth down, punted with Hamilton's boot going to the Keyser forty-three from where the Tornado started its touchdown drive.

Pass Nets Keyser Score Jerry Hines picked up eight around end and Jack Dorsey gained twelve to put the Tornado on the Romney forty. Hines and Broome moved the ball to the twenty-five and then Hines passed fifteen yards to Dorsey who ran the remaining ten down the sidelines. Broome punted the point.

Romney kept hammering on the touchdown door throughout the last half and in the third period was stopped on the five. The Pioneer made thirteen first downs to Keyser's six and completed three of seven passes to the Tornado's 110. The only penalty was a fifteen-yard pass interference against Romney. The lineups:

CLAASSEN'S GRID SELECTIONS

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (AP)—Offering you these football selections but not guaranteeing that they will approximate last week's offering in which results of thirty-five games (disregarding ties) were forecast correctly:

Notre Dame over Navy: The year's biggest game to date and indications are that 80,000 fans will be in the Cleveland stands. The game is Bertelli's farewell and that's likely to fire the Irish to their very best—which they will have to be.

Army over Pennsylvania: Penn's attack is one of the most versatile in the country by Army's speed and depth of reserves should break the Cadet Franklin field jinx. Some 70,000 fans saved their cash to see this game.

Georgia Tech over Duke: Because of navy transfer, neither coach likely will know his exact lineup until the kickoff although Tech has earlier knowledge that Mutt Manning, captain and center, and Tackle Willie Smith would be available. At least 40,000 Dixie fans will be present.

Southern California over California—The Trojans did it earlier in the season, 7 to 0, but that won't keep 40,000 fans from the game.

Indiana over Ohio State: Two of the country's best all-civilian outfits tangle before 25,000 with Huncho Hoenschmeyer and his Hoosier Hotshots getting the edge over Dean Sensenbaurer and Ernie Parks.

Northwestern over Minnesota: Another ex-Gopher, this time it is Herman Frickey, to spoil the day for Minnesota.

Dartmouth over Yale: Don Kasprzak's passing to be more effective than Ray Scussell's running in a fray that will lure 25,000 to the bowl.

Georgia Pre-flight over Tulane: Pat Harder and Steve Filipowicz should entertain the 20,000 spectators but ruin the day for the Greenies.

Louisiana State over Texas Christian: Navy transfers removed four regulars and three subs from the TCU roster—and Steve Van Buren still is operating for the Tigers.

Washington over Spokane Air Force: The Huskies to continue among the unbeaten elevens.

Holy Cross over Colgate: The Crusaders' wealth of backfield material to decide.

Michigan over Illinois: Even with the expected let-down following the Minnesota game, Michigan should have enough to win here.

Texas over Southern Methodist: The Longhorns have it.

Cornell over Columbia: Everything happens to Columbia this year, except victory. Now Coach Lou Little is sick and won't be at Ithaca to guide his Lions.

Tulsa over Southwestern: This one would have been a thriller had Southwestern retained its navy stars.

Purdue over Wisconsin: Badger foes have scored 109 points in the last three games and the deluge doesn't stop this week.

Iowa Pre-flight over Fort Riley: The Seahawks' officers get back into action in this one.

Princeton over Brown: Brown's navy losses and Doc Savage's injury should tip this one toward the Tigers.

Oklahoma over Iowa State: The home field advantage deciding an important Big Six affair.

Finishing in a hurry: Wake Forest over Clemson, North Carolina over North Carolina State, Vanderbilt over Milligan, Greenville Air Base over Maryland, Camp Davis over Camp Lejeune, Pittsburgh over Carnegie Tech, Great Lakes over Western Michigan, Missouri over Nebraska, Marquette over Denver, Kansas over Kansas State, Texas A. and M. over Arkansas, Texas Tech over Rice, March Field over St. Mary's.

Pre-flight, San Diego Naval over UCLA, St. Mary's over San Francisco, Rutgers over Lehigh, Rochester over Case, Bucknell over Muhlenberg, Tufts over Coast Guard Academy and Penn State over West Virginia.

Shut Out Heavy Favorite To Win
Pimlico Special Favorite To Win

Alsab Will Make Comeback Attempt in Tom Ochiltree 'Cap

By DONALD SANDERS
BALTIMORE, Oct. 29 (AP)—The weather, which dangled a club of uncertainty over the Pimlico Special all week, finally cleared today a few hours before five colts were named to compete in the $25,000 classic, and it appeared that three and possibly four would go to the post tomorrow.

A heavy favorite in the early odds was Greentree stable's Shut Out, tenth largest money winner of all time and the leading three-year-old of last season. Shut Out had been regarded as a doubtful starter all week, because of the condition of the track.

Side Rule Eligible Named overnight to run against Mrs. Payne Whitney's son of Equipse in the mile and three sixteenths, weight-for-age Special were W. E. Boeing's Slide Rule, runner up to Count Fleet for three-year-old honors this year; Hal Price Headley's Anticlimax, Fairy Manhurst, from the Foxcatcher farm stables of William duPont, Jr., and Eurasian, racing in the colors of Frank and Joe Rabinovich's Havana home stable.

Shut Out and Anticlimax, both four-year-olds, will carry 126 pounds and the other three 120.

The running of the Special will be broadcast around the world (NBC) between the halves of the Notre Dame-Navy football game in Cleveland. Post time was set at 4:10 p. m. (EWT).

Woolf vs. Arcaro George Woolf, who today was assigned the mount on Slide Rule, and Eddie Arcaro, who will ride Shut Out, both have previous victories in the Special to their credit.

Woolf has ridden three of the six Special winners and Arcaro one. The Greentree star was quoted in the overnight odds at 6-5, with Anticlimax the probable second choice at 5-2 if he starts.

Eurasian was held at 4-1, Slide Rule at 6-1 and Fairy Manhurst at 8-1.

Trainer Augustus "Sarge" Sweeney chose tomorrow's card to start Alsab on another comeback attempt, naming Mrs. Albert Sabath's bargain colt to go to the post in tomorrow's $3,500 Tom Ochiltree handicap.

Three-Run Triple Johnson's Big Thrill

PETERSBURG, Va., (AP)—Bill Johnson, sensational rookie third baseman of the New York Yankees, tells friends here that one of his biggest thrills came when he took the field for the opening game of the 1943 World Series at Yankee stadium and gazed up at the crowd of 68,672 fans.

Before the series ended, though, Johnson got another thrill. It came in the eighth inning of the third game when he tripled with the bases loaded.

"That was really a thrill," Johnson chirps. "When I reached third base, Coach Art Fletcher nearly broke my back smacking me."

Penn State's cross-country team this year is composed entirely of Navy-marine trainees.

Games Involving Unbeaten Elevens Feature Program

Notre Dame Battles Navy and Pennsylvania Opposes Army

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (AP)—The shrinkage in the ranks of the country's sixteen unified, unbeaten football teams will be terrific this weekend with four clubs—all with clean records—tangling in a pair of games.

Notre Dame, the country's No. 1 team by virtue of five top-sided triumphs, opposes Navy, likewise winner of five straight, in Cleveland after an expected throng of 80,000. Philadelphia will be host to 70,000 for the Penn-Army contest, involving undefeated outfits.

Purdue, which has won six in a row, should have little difficulty with Wisconsin but the Iowa Seahawks, even though their officers-players will see action, probably will have a difficult afternoon with Fort Riley, a 13 to 13 equal of Great Lakes last week.

Trojans Battle Bears Southern California, not only unbeaten but unscored upon as well, has a return engagement with California, a team it defeated 7 to 0 earlier in the year. Tulsa, which has gotten better in each of its four winning appearances, is booked against Southwestern of Texas, one of the country's better clubs until its starting lineup was all wiped out by naval graduates.

Colorado college is idle as is Franklin and Marshall while Randolph Field, Tex., goes international by meeting the University of Mexico in San Antonio. Washington again meets a service club, this time the Second Air Force Flyers.

All those contests have at least one unbeaten participant but there will be other top-flight games as well.

Duke invades Georgia Tech with the lineup in each case a mystery because of navy transfers; North Carolina mixes with North Carolina State; Michigan turns Bill Daley loose for the last time against Illinois, opposes Northwestern.

What likely is the year's best all-civilian duel is on the docket at Columbus, Ohio, with Huncho Hoenschmeyer and his Indiana mates tackling Ernie Parks and the remainder of the Buckeyes.

The Federal Diary

By Jerry Kluttz

Funds to Centralize Records Approved

Only a few dollars—in comparison with the amounts asked—were approved by the House Appropriations Committee when it reported a deficiency bill yesterday but it did give the Civil Service Commission funds to centralize the personnel and retirement records of Federal employees. This project, hailed by the committee, will eliminate the jobs of 1429 employees and save the taxpayers $2,293,800. Each agency now maintains these records at a cost of three million annually and 1800 employees. The commission said it could do the job with 371 employees at an annual cost of $706,200 and the committee patted it on the back and said fine, go ahead. The plan was sponsored jointly by the commission and the Budget Bureau. War must reduce its personnel office by 500 employees and Navy by 300 when the centralization takes place.

The committee had cautious words to say about overstaffing in Government and it served notice that funds will be cut unless administrators correct the condition. No one, the committee said, is able to say that there is a definite percentage of excess personnel but, it added, most responsible of officials are willing to admit that there is some overstaffing. The committee was referring to Civil Service Commissioner Arthur S. Flemming and Budget Director Harold Smith, who were quizzed in detail about overstaffing. It said Flemming had put his finger on the problem when he said, in effect, that overstaffing resulted from poor supervision. Congress, the committee said, doesn't want to hinder the war by making arbitrary cuts, but it warned they will come unless administrators weed out the idle offices.

100,000 to Go
Another 100,000 employees will be cut from the Federal payroll between now and the end of the year, the committee predicted. The committee gave Harold Smith half the money he asked for to make more detailed investigation of personnel. Under the Overtime Pay Act, the Budget Bureau must fix personnel ceiling for Federal agencies every 90 days, and Smith said he planned to get a lot together with the agencies when he was given funds for an additional staff. Turnover in the Federal service this year will reach another tremendous figure. In July, August and September, 538,000 placements were made, or an annual basis of 2,100,000. The commission hopes it can be held down to 1,920,000, or an annual turnover rate of 6 per cent.

Civil Aeronautics Administration was denied $325,000 to raise salaries of 2000 field employees. Officials say it's just about impossible to hold their people with all the offers of higher salaries they get. . . . Census Bureau, however, was given $175,000 to raise the salaries of employees. The Civil Service Commission has reclassified. . . . But the committee again slapped down the Employment Service by refusing it funds to raise the salaries of field employees to the Federal level. The employees are now paid salaries fixed by the States, but they must work in offices with unemployment compensation people who get Federal level salaries. The committee did allow $1,584,000 to meet increases recently given by the States.

Estimated to save from 40 to 50 million dollars a year, War Shipping Administration was given $2,350,000 to hire a staff of 1500 examiners to check material and labor costs on ships under repair. WSA asked for 5000 examiners. . . . National Labor Relations Board asked for $300,000 to hire 133 people to enforce the Smith-Connally Act. It was given $75,000. . . . Agriculture was given $15,000 to make experiments designed to adapt the Army "jeep" for farm use. . . . The committee approved funds for Solid Fuels to pay personnel and activities taken over from the new abolished Bituminous Coal Division. . . . Bureau of Mint will be able to produce about 700 million coins this year under its revised estimate.

Farm Security Administration was walloped over the head again by the committee. It wasn't given a cent and it must fire more than 5000 employees very soon unless more money is forthcoming. And it might be. Insiders say the funds weren't allowed because of a jurisdictional dispute within the committee. Representative Tarver, chairman of the Agriculture Subcommittee, insisted that his group, and not the deficiency subcommittee, should handle any request for additional money. It's possible that Tarver's group will take action on the request or that the Senate will give FSA some money. Meanwhile, many of the key people are leaving FSA. Joe Scott, Oklahoma commissioner of agriculture, is the latest person to have refused the top job in FSA. Now, it's reported, he will be offered to former Representative Frank Hancock of North Carolina. Hancock, it's said, is the candidate of Representative Cooley of North Carolina, who is chairman of a House committee that's investigating FSA.

Hospitals Hail Extra Food Points

Superintendents and dietitians of Washington hospitals welcomed the announcement by OPA yesterday that additional ration points for canned and processed foods will be released to institutions caring for sick and disabled persons.

The grant of points, over and above regular hospital allotments, is planned by OPA to enable building of "emergency larders." But as matters stand—and apparently have stood since food rationing began—they will come in very handy to meet existing shortages.

OPA acknowledged yesterday that local supply difficulties made the move advisable, since hospitals must stock food in quantities, and officials interviewed backed this analysis of the situation.

"I was wondering what we would do when fresh greens go off the market," Chief Dietitian Alice Lattson of Children's Hospital declared. "It certainly is good news."

Superintendent Elizabeth Rodgers of Casualty Hospital felt that even if the extra allotment would not permit building of a reserve, it would fill the gaps in the hospital storeroom.

John A. Lindner, director of Doctors Hospital, welcomed the news as a means of "lightening the burden," but pointed out that OPA has done a "thoroughly good job" in supplying adequate ration points to hospitals, and "we've been managing on what we had," he said.

Fresh fruits and vegetables, scarce and expensive during cold weather, have been the principal concern of most institutions unable to meet demands with previous allowances. "The added points will be a godsend," according to Rowena Roberts, dietitian at Sibley.

Golf Course Control Kept By Interior
The question of whether the District Recreation Board would operate the public golf courses was left unanswered yesterday after members said they had been advised by an official of the Interior Department, which has jurisdiction over the parks, that the department intends to retain control.

The golf courses previously have been leased to a concessionaire by the Interior Department. Recreation Board members said that under their interpretation of a recent act of Congress, they were authorized to take over and operate the public courses.

Interior Department officials agreed to permit the Recreation Board to operate the courses, but with the proviso that the department would retain the power to nullify any action by the recreation department.

Another edict of the Interior Department which Recreation Board members resented was that which would bring the courses and facilities under National Capital Park and Planning Commission designation.

The matter came to a head yesterday during a meeting of the Recreation Board committee on contracts which had been called to discuss a letter from Oscar L. Chapman, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, in which he advised them the department would not accept any action taken by the committee. It was pointed out that the contract by which the courses had been operated by a private individual had expired and new arrangements were now in order.

500 Nebraskans Attend Opening Dance of Season

Five hundred Nebraskans gathered at the Statler Hotel last night to open the first dance this season of the Nebraska State Society and greet home-State Congressmen.

Father Edward J. Flanagan, tired from lengthy interviews and preparations for the benefit football game Sunday between his famed Boys Town team and Gonzaga High School, welcomed the gathering and urged wide attendance at the game.

Speaking to reporters after the dance, the dean of Boys Town declared that just so long as there are delinquent parents, "who refuse to recognize God in their daily life," there will be delinquent children. He said that in his opinion 60 per cent of servicemen contracting venereal disease got it from association with young girls from 12 to 16 years of age. Parental responsibility in such cases is clear, he said.

Moves Gain to Compensate Charwomen for Deductions

Eighty Bureau of Printing and Engraving charwomen, threatened last summer with an order to repay excess wages erroneously paid to them, today will move another stride closer to reprieve as the House Claims Committee reports out a bill to make compensation for deductions.

The bill is identical to a measure reported favorably by Senator Ellender of the Senate Claims Committee on Wednesday. Under its provisions any deductions already made from pay checks are to be reimbursed but other employees whose salaries were paid correctly would not be granted an equal amount.

The error was discovered last June by the General Accounting

No Man's Land This Is What's Happened to A Man's Work

Add to your wartime vocabulary the catchy phrase, "fe-mailman," as introduced yesterday by Mrs. Marion Blaisdell of Silver Spring. Doing a man's job is nothing new to the Army "widow," who a few years ago qualified as one of the country's few lady steeplejacks. She came down to earth yesterday and began delivering mail to nearby homes.

Manpower shortages notwithstanding, postal authorities mulctured, "Are you kidding?" when Mrs. Blaisdell applied for a job as mail carrier. But Mrs. Blaisdell wasn't insistent that all-day hiking and adverse weather wouldn't stop her. She was nursing a pair of slightly sore feet at the end of her day yesterday, but she was prepared for that.

Given a choice between housewifery and operating a Capital Transit Co. streetcar, Mrs. Mary DeBoard, 4044 Irving st. ne., will keep picking up passengers along 14th st. for the duration and six. "You meet such interesting people," according to Mrs. DeBoard, who has held the job for a month, "and it's really fun."

When the aluminum of her frying pans went into dials for war weapons, Mrs. Ruth Hoofring learned how to cut them at a 14-inch lathe in the Washington Navy Yard. A housewife, she'd never worked in a factory before war was declared, but she wanted to match the effort of her husband, Charles Hoofring, who also works in a Navy Yard machine shop.

Greek Admiral Here Sees Need Of Providing Food for Nation

The reestablishment of the Greek nation can best be accomplished through a six months' feeding period followed by an election to determine what type of government is desired; this will help to formulate a lasting peace and just order through the creation of a new Balkan entente, Admiral Alexander Sakellariou, commander in chief of the Greek navy, said yesterday.

Claiming that Italy's expansion plans predated the Fascist period with regard to Greece, he said his country desires to regain "such national borders" after the war as will protect the nation against future aggression.

Admiral Sakellariou, who was vice premier and minister of the navy in the cabinet that fled Greece after the Nazi occupation, recalled that Albania and Bulgaria were the only Balkan states which did not belong to the Balkan entente before the war.

Here on a special mission of the government of King George, the ranking officer of the Greek navy declared that "no one today can claim to represent the Greek people."

The admiral, who has served his country since 1902, last year was made a Knight Commander of the Bath by the British.

Admiral Sakellariou said that he was the last cabinet member to leave Greece just one day before the Nazis entered Athens. He went from there to Crete and finally established his headquarters in Cairo, Egypt, where he remained in charge of the Greek navy until April of this year.

Although no Greek ship surrendered or fell into the hands of the enemy, the admiral said, almost 50 per cent of the fleet was lost in action. Replacements furnished by the British, he added, have brought it to its former strength.

It's Simple Toil

Bees Wax Smart In The Winter

This, for better or worse, is a story with a moral.

Sophistication is what is wrong with this modern life—not the maelstrom of Washington, nor the crowds, nor the loneliness—it's the failure to appreciate the finer, simpler things.

The Post's correspondent in Leonardtown, Md., has been endowed with the great gift to see this solemn truth. She writes as follows:

By Grace W. Knight
Leonardtown, Nov. 4.—If no one else can find rooms and houses in Leonardtown, leave it to bees and they will find a place every time.

High above the passing traffic and the booming of the church bells, in the heart of the old wooden cross atop the St. Aloysius' Catholic Church here, in Leonardtown, the bees have found it an excellent place to honeycomb and take refuge in. Come hell and high water, the bees buzz; they are safe.

All summer the bees have worked and filled the old cross' seams to bursting proportions with the toil of their labor, and it's full of sweet honey that they expect to live on this winter. Regardless of ration points and the price of war food, they are O. K.

And better still, they are so high up, few can reach or attempt to reach them only at the great risk of their own life, and it's perfectly certain few if any will attempt it, for churches in olden times were the places of sanctuary for humans, and the bees feel it should be for nature's children.

Grand Jurors Start Probe Of Gallinger

The District grand jury investigation of Gallinger Hospital began yesterday with opening statements by Assistant United States Attorney John W. Fihely and Police Lieut. Joseph W. Shimon.

Fihely disclosed later that the complete investigation of the United States Attorney's office has been turned over to the District Commissioners for whatever administrative action they may wish to take.

The grand jury will resume investigation of the case Wednesday, and will probe the possibility of misappropriation of hospital funds and supplies. After this matter is disposed of, the grand jury will go into evidence of alleged mistreatment of inmates at the institution, Fihely said.

Dr. Edgar L. Bocock, hospital superintendent will not be among the first witnesses called, Fihely said, adding that first will be taken up the cases of Waldo H. Kuhn, superintendent of grounds, residing at 1955 S. st. se.; Arthur Files, laundry foreman, of 3333 Baker st. ne.; Charles West, pharmacist, of 324 17th st. ne.; James R. Gardner, property and supplies officer, who resides at the hospital, and Clarence Campbell, former employee, of 1204 Matthew pl. nw.

The investigation grew out of a General Accounting Office report and a subsequent investigation by a House District Subcommittee which asked for the removal of Dr. Bocock and four others.

After next Wednesday's hearings, the grand jury will resume on November 13, with hearings to continue through the following week and possibly longer, Fihely said. He indicated that should the evidence warrant it, he might call a special grand jury, but added "we don't really have enough for that."

Mrs. Meyer to Tell Social Agencies of Tour of England

Mrs. Eugene Meyer, newspaperwoman and wife of the editor and publisher of The Washington Post, will speak about her observations of the effects of war on children in England and in this country at the first fall meeting of the Council of Social Agencies Monday at 12 noon at the YWCA, 17th and K sts. nw.

John Ihlder, president of the board of directors, will preside. Applications for council membership by the Day Care Office of D. C. Services to Children of Working Mothers and the headquarters section, Army Air Forces Branch of Army Emergency Relief, will be considered at the meeting. Preliminary approval of their applications has already been granted by the board of directors, it was said.

Halloween—a Day or So Late

PUMPKINS AND PRETTY GIRLS—Although Halloween was celebrated here in most circles last Saturday night, members of the junior and senior classes at Trinity College chose Wednesday night for their Halloween banquet and party. Block Leader Drive for 15,000 To Start Soon

The Civilian War Services branch of the District Government yesterday completed plans for a city-wide drive to recruit the 15,000 block leaders who will form the backbone for various civilian war agencies here.

The two-weeks between November 15 and December 1 have been designated the recruitment period, when a huge publicity campaign to put the drive over will be promoted by Washington radio stations, department stores, motion pictures theaters and other widely frequented places in the city.

Planning and coordination of the campaign will be worked out by a publicity committee, members of which were announced yesterday by Harry P. Somerville, executive officer of Civilian War Services.

Large Group Named

Chairman of the committee is Ray Bell, director of public relations for Pennsylvania Central Airlines; Bryson Rasch of Station WMAL has been named vice chairman and chairman of the radio subcommittee. Eleanor Dagges, advertising director of Palais Royal Department Store, is chairman of the department store subcommittee and Frank La Falce, advertising director of the Warner Brothers Theaters, chairman of the motion picture theaters committee.

Other members named to the publicity committee include: Bob Douglas, executive officer of the Capital Transit Company; Robert Lewis, advertising manager of the Washington Gas Light Company; James Rotto, advertising director of the Hecht Co.; Henry Voss, advertising director of Lansburgh's; James Hardy, advertising director of Woodward and Lothrop; Robert Davidson, of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. and Kirk Miller of the Safeway Stores.

Forty community chairmen of the 66 needed to direct war service activities in Washington's 66 zones have already been selected, and qualified volunteers for the remaining vacancies are asked to call Executive 5440, Extension 43. Persons who know their neighborhoods well and have familiarized themselves with their day-to-day wartime needs would make ideal community chairmen, according to publicity director Bell.

Variety of Duties

The problems demanding major attention in this city—and in the solution of which every householder in the city eventually will be asked to take part—are: care and maintenance of children of working mothers, pooling of transportation facilities through an effective car-sharing program, a victory garden campaign to relieve possible food and nutrition shortages, a canvas of available full and part-time workers for vital industries and services here; and recruitment of WACS.

3 D. C. Clerics Agree Esquire Jokes Are Too Sexy for Public

A Protestant minister, a Catholic priest, a Jewish rabbi and an assistant superintendent of Washington schools yesterday testified that they regarded Esquire as a threat to public morals.

They had been called as witnesses at the hearing on the question of revoking the second class mailing rights being conducted by the Postoffice Department.

Dr. Solomon Metz, rabbi of Adas Israel Congregation, was the most emphatic.

"It seems to me," he said, "the whole atmosphere of the publication is to reduce the main interest of living to sex."

Used to "Glean" at Esquire

"I am not what you would call a reader of Esquire," Dr. Metz went on, "but I have spent about three hours during the past week going over these copies and I also used to glean at Esquire when I went to the dentist and was waiting my turn. I used to glean particularly at the cartoons and the pictures which I consider most indecent."

Brother Bromley, attorney for the publishers of the magazine, conducted a cross-examination of the various witnesses.

Wading into his cross-examination, Bromley told the following, which he said was a joke.

"She: 'Would you like to see the place where I was operated on?'"

"He: 'No, I hate hospitals.'"

Destructive of Morals, He Says

Bromley demanded to know if Dr. Metz considered the story destructive of morals and ethics. Destructive of morals the joke certainly was, Dr. Metz answered, but ethics he was not prepared to say.

At this point the questioning appeared to become a little boring and Dr. Metz was asked if he subscribed to Reader's Digest. He asserted he did. Bromley went on with his so-called jokes and Dr. Metz found them of varying shades of indecency.

Bromley interrupted:

"Those jokes appeared in Reader's Digest," he said.

Bad for Children, Holmes Says

Following Dr. Metz to the stand was Dr. Chester W. Holmes, an assistant superintendent of Washington schools, who said he was testifying only on his opinion of whether or not the magazine was fit for consumption of school children. He said it was not.

The Rev. Dr. John Keating Cartwright, pastor of Immaculate Conception Church, said the type of subjects emphasized by Esquire "needed no encouragement."

"You are aware, Father Cartwright, that the Catholic Digest

Junior Board of Commerce Group Hits McCarran Bill

Opposition to the McCarran home rule bill will be recommended to the Junior Board of Commerce by its special investigating committee, it was learned last night. When the organization will act on the report was not made known.

Winfield Weitzel, president of the board, said the membership is expected to concur in the findings of the committee, which was headed by Attorney A. P. Crenshaw. The opposition was based on the fact the McCarran bill does not give the District national representation.

"The Junior Board of Commerce will not take affirmative action on Senator McCarran's plan because it will not, if passed, give us national representation. That is what we want," said Weitzel.

"Further, we have no assurance the bill will give a better form of government than now exists under the three commissioner plan."

"An increase in the number of commissioners to seven, as provided by the bill pending, is not any guarantee that the District would be better governed than it is now."

Similar action was taken recently by the Washington Board of Trade at its first fall meeting.

At present the McCarran bill is in the Senate District Committee and there is not any indication it is due for an early hearing.

Utility, Union Ask Increase In Wages for Gas Workers

The Regional War Labor Board yesterday was asked to grant a one-half of 1 per cent wage increase to some 1400 workers of the Washington Gas Light Co. and its subsidiaries in a "joint letter" from the company and the District of Columbia Gas Workers Union, J. Loren Freund, union secretary, announced.

A request for a 2 per cent wage boost, due the workers under a contract of June, 1942, was denied by the WLB October 12, when it was argued that "present rates already compared favorably with the earnings of workers engaged in similar occupations in this area."

Asking for reconsideration of the case, the joint letter pointed out that the gas workers had still 0.42 per cent coming to them under the Little Steel formula since their over-all wage increases since January 1, 1942, only amounted to 14.58 per cent, according to figures filed with the WLB.

"Without discussing further justification for the original demand for a 2 per cent increase," the letter asked the board to correct its "violation of WLB policy" as laid down in the Little Steel formula.

The wage boost, "preferably one-half of one per cent, but at least 0.42 per cent," was demanded to be made retroactive to October 1, 1942.

David L. McGonegal is president of the union which is not affiliated with any national labor organization.

Heartsick Over Her Fiance's Careless Habit Of Breaking Dates Without Advance Notice, Girl, 19, Asks Whether She Should Marry Him

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have been thinking about writing you for some time. The trouble is, I have been in love with a boy who was a classmate of mine until last year. He is now in the Ar Corps Reserve; and in February he will graduate from Tech High School. We decided in September that we would be married as soon as he gets his diploma, even though we knew he would be leaving immediately afterward. But I don't know just what to plan on now. He says he loves me and would be lost without me; but lately I find it hard to believe he loves me at all.

Jimmie is 20 and I am 19. Both of us come from unhappy homes and we know what it means when a marriage is unhappy. I am afraid to get married for fear he would neglect me. As I have no mother to turn to, maybe you can tell me how Jimmie and I can get back on the road to happiness. Miss Haworth, if a boy really loves a girl, do you think he would go out with a crowd of boys after a football game, instead of keeping a date with her (when she is his fiancee)? This is what Jimmie did, without even calling me. I was so worried I didn't know what to do. The next morning, I telephoned his home and his mother answered. She called Jimmie, but he didn't get up. When she asked if there was a message, I told her to tell him not to bother to call me back. But when he got up, he did call and asked to see me that night. I said I didn't want to get dressed for a date and be "stood up" again. He assured me this wouldn't happen, so I let him come.

We went to the movies, at his suggestion; so I didn't have a chance to discuss anything with him. At parting, he said he would not be able to see me this week, but would call me. He did call me the next two nights, but we couldn't say much, as other people were in the room. He said he would call again last night; so I waited by the telephone until 11 p. m. and he still hadn't called, so I went to bed. This morning I had circles around my eyes and lines in my brow, from frowning in my sleep. I have a job; and I cannot afford to go on this way. But I love him and don't want to lose him. So what can I do?

This Is Not Love; It's Morbid Fixation

DEAR L. T. B.: If you want to get back on the road to happiness, the first thing to do is this: Abandon the idea of marrying Jimmie. That piece of advice cannot be too strongly emphasized. We can't do anything to erase the lines from your brow and the circles from beneath your eyes, nor to lift the crushing load of misery from your spirit, unless you take that advice to heart,—by accepting it as gospel and acting upon it. You say you love Jimmie. That isn't so. You have become obsessed with Jimmie,—which is a different emotion altogether. To the extent that you permit him to "walk over" your feelings and cripple your self-confidence,—as he is progressively doing by his careless, egoistic mistreatment of you,—to that extent do you become more seriously involved in the slavish, obsessive conviction that your sole hope of happiness depends upon having Jimmie treat you decently.

The fact that you "come from an unhappy home" and have none but me to turn to for advice also sheds light on the morbid significance of your whipped-puppy fixation on Jimmie. You need love (as who doesn't?). You need very greatly the soul-sustaining assurance that you are "away out in front" in somebody's estimation. You need this assurance not only to warm the cockles of your heart; but to keep your self-esteem at par, or well above. If you had such special devotion from some important source,—from a mother or a dad who were "swell persons" by anybody's reckoning; or from a lifelong boy friend who was like a "big brother," who never let you down when you besought their sympathetic understanding and moral support,—you would have brushed off Jimmie a long time ago, as an insufferably bad-mannered smarty who made the mistake of his young life in thinking he could treat you like an old rag doll.

Twofold Cause Of Boy's Behavior

THERE IS a twofold explanation of Jimmie's careless procedure in relation to you. On the one hand, he isn't a first-quality character. He has no finer sensibilities, or he would not constantly humiliate and distress you by the conduct described. The old saying, "Punctuality is the courtesy of kings," stresses the noble virtue of dependability of behavior in one's social relationships. Jimmie lives by no such precepts,—lacking the delicacy of instinct which prompts true consideration; and, obviously, lacking also the background training-in-responsibility which begets punctilio. On the other hand, you are almost equally to blame for the indignities he visits on you,—due to your "thankful-for-crumbs" clutching at him. For instance, in the matter of telephoning him the morning after he "stood you up," you put yourself in the position of being a craven nuisance. A man cannot love a girl who fails to compel his respect; nor can he respect a girl who lets him mistreat her. So, in process of letting him kick you around, so to speak, you have given him cause to despise you,—which accounts for his increasingly contemptuous assumption that he may do as he boorishly pleases, where you are concerned; and you can like it or lump it.

FOR SPECIFIC advice: Don't give Jimmie another date. The minute you have scored on that point, you will begin to feel better. You will make a rapid recovery from this misguided infatuation from that time on. Break off with him, in your own heart, now. Break completely and finally,—fortified by the knowledge that this fizzled-out romance was a flash-in-the-pan that has taught you, through suffering, the importance of exacting careful consideration from the male sex, if you are to enjoy a happy relationship with them. When Jimmie calls again, as I suppose he will,—if you let him alone long enough to arouse his curiosity,—just tell him that you don't want to see him again; that you have nothing to say to him; and that you have finished bothering about him, because experience has proved he is "the little man who wasn't there." And then hang up. But begin right now casting your nets for another best beau. "A new love" is the sure cure for youth's romantic blues.

M. H.

Miss Haworth will be glad to help you in solving your problems. Write her in care of The Post Woman's Page.

Teen-Age Talk

It's not hard to please the teen-age crowd when Christmas comes. Give them something they can use, something practical but pretty and gay. Make them yourself but start making them now.

Here are some suggestions that fairly burst at the seams with Christmas spirit. Directions for making these and other gifts are available in sewing books that cost 10 cents.

Make a Scarf—

Here is a distinctive scarf with a wide border of ever popular fringe. It's easy to make and you can listen to your favorite radio program or have a nice chat while you make it.

Make a Hat—

Any fashion-minded miss would love to have a crocheted Dutch bonnet like this. You can make it in bright colors and besides looking mighty pretty over those long tresses it will keep her head warm this winter.

The Trimmings—

Here are the kind of trimmings that rate with any school girl from junior to senior high school. A gay colored belt, embroidery trimmed; lapel ornaments made in the shape of hearts or little dolls (you can use all your odd bits of yarn for these); or a crocheted necklace and earring set to match.

Make a Pair of Lounge Socks—

Crochet a sole on an ordinary pair of anklets, and there you've got a pair of lounge socks! They'll be the first thing she'll reach for when she comes home after school.

Make a Pair of Mittens— This is one pair we'll bet won't be lost. Something new in mitten designs, crocheted in wool and with a drawstring tie around the wrist. Make the palm and back of contrasting colors.

Make an Evening Bag—

This is a good bag for teenagers because it's big enough to hold a few cosmetics and a change purse, and small enough to tuck in a coat pocket. You could make it in faille or velveteen for evening; in corduroy for sportswear.

Call NATIONAL 4200, Extension 324, between 9 and 5:30 and we'll tell you where to find the sewing book containing the directions—price, 10 cents.

Your Baby And Mine

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Having fed her baby from infancy, any mother is eager to shift some of the responsibility for self-feeding to the year-old child. He has learned to drink from a cup, now why can't he feed himself by spoon?

Children of this age can hold a spoon but have very little general ability to load it successfully and bring the load to where it will do the most good. Most children tilt the spoon sideways as it travels up, leaving a trail of good cereal from dish to mouth. Until the child is 21 months or more, most of the responsibility for feeding him has to be borne by the parent, even while she works to make him acquainted with the use of commonplace feeding utensils.

The child's attempts to hold his cup should be encouraged by using a small cup with an ounce or two of milk which he can negotiate with ease. The spoon can be held in his hand and with it he can imitate the mother's movements as she puts it into the cereal, shovel-like, and lifts it to his mouth.

When he wants to help she guides his hand by putting her finger under the spoon to keep it right-side up until he deposits its contents. She watches baby to note signs of weariness or satiety and a propensity then to throw spoon, cups and their contents over the side of the chair.

Children can manage only one food at a time and that in small quantities. Unless tied in their chairs they grow restless and want to stand up and entertain themselves teetering about instead of attending to the business at hand.

When baby is learning to handle a spoon or cup there should be no scolding emphasis upon tidiness. Of course, he'll pick up food in his fingers as well as stir the food with them. These are passing phases of the whole ceremony of learning to eat.

Once he has mastered it he'll want to feed himself most but not all of the time. Not, presumably, until he is at least 28 to 36 months can he be counted upon to manage this at every meal.

Our leaflet, "Teaching Use of Cup and Spoon," may be had by sending a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of The Washington Post.

About Washington . . .

YOU WOULDN'T THINK it could happen in this enlightened era . . . but it did. A Washington woman who had just purchased a house in Chevy Chase asked the current occupant when she expected to move. "I don't know—yet; I haven't had time to consult my fortune teller," was the answer. And the woman wasn't joking, either; for she added, in an equally serious tone, "I never make a move of any kind without that precaution" . . . Back in town after an extended tour to the West is Olga Moore (Mrs. Carl F. Arnold), the writer, whose latest short stories appear in the current issue of Good Housekeeping Magazine . . . Also returned to Washington is Mrs. Walter Raleigh Amesbury, who spent the past few days in New York, where she went to attend a benefit for the Lower East Side Boys Club, a board member of which she has been for some time. She took along with her 60 dozen cookies, which she baked herself, as her contribution to the event. Formerly, an outstanding textile designer in New York, Mrs. Amesbury also served on 39 welfare and educational committees. She came to Washington last autumn with her husband, Lieut. Amesbury, USN, who is stationed here . . . Senora de Somoza, wife of the President of Nicaragua, and mother of Senora de Sevilla Sacasa, wife of the Nicaraguan Ambassador, has arrived in Washington for a visit.

OUR TOWN is to have a new art gallery. Located in an ante-bellum gingerbread home

Mrs. Worthington. On Visit Here. Is Honored at Fete

Ensign Norman Keith, USN, and Mrs. Keith entertained a company of 18 at dinner last evening for Mrs. Keith's mother, Mrs. Ralph Worthington, who is here from New York for a brief stay at the Mayflower.

Justice and Mrs. Stanley Reed were ranking guests, and in the group were friends of both the hosts and the guest of honor including one or two members of the State Department.

Mrs. Worthington has leased her house, River Farm, near Alexandria, to Capt. E. H. L. Sexton, USA, and Mrs. Sexton, who are here for the duration from Philadelphia. Mrs. Worthington will go to Florida in February for her annual visit and will return to her apartment at 825 5th ave. in March.

With her estate at Greenwich, Conn., still open, Mrs. Worthington makes frequent weekend visits there through the autumn. She is in Washington only until tomorrow, but hopes to come back again next time for a longer stay.

Miss Stallard Becomes Bride Of W. A. Jagger

Now on a wedding trip in New Jersey is William A. Jagger and his bride, the former Miss Eleanor Ann Stallard of Washington.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Stallard of Dallas, Tex. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. John Jagger and the late Mr. Jagger of New Haven, Conn. The ceremony took place at the bridegroom's home in New Haven on October 30. The Rev. Daniel Bennett officiated.

The bride wore a gown of white tulle designed with fitted bodice and full skirt. She carried a colonial bouquet and wore pink roses in her hair.

The bride's attendant, Miss Ruth Jagger, sister of the bridegroom, wore a pink tulle dress fashioned like that of the bride's. Mr. John Jagger, brother of the bridegroom, served as the best man. A dinner reception was held at the Jagger home following the ceremony.

Mrs. Jagger attended Oklahoma City University, and is now employed with the State Department in Washington. Mr. Jagger is third class radio technician in the United States Coast Guard Reserves and is stationed in New York City.

opposite the house where General Grant lived in 1860, the place will be known as The G Place Gallery. It will be devoted to painting, sculpture and the graphic arts and will be the scene of a preview reception on Sunday night from 9 o'clock until midnight.

Caresse Crosby, who has been associated with progressive art and artists since she owned and managed the Black Sun Press in Paris, and David Porter, whose interest in art for the past 10 years has been centered in the Midwestern painting created in his home town of Chicago, will direct The G Place Gallery (916 G pl.) as partners.

The opening exhibition arranged by Mrs. Crosby is the "summer work" by the leading surrealist painters, Ernst, Matta, Tanguy and Lam. David Porter's part of the first exhibition will feature work by American artists depicting familiar scenes of daily life and carrying out the general theme "Home Sweet Home—USA."

The G Pl. Gallery will be open, free, to the public from 2 p. m. until 8 p. m., each day, including Sundays.

THE TRAVELER, returned from Mexico, who recently gave me a story about King Carol of Rumania and Mme. Lupescu, yesterday answered some further questions about them—three, in fact, that I mentioned in the account of the first interview I had with him.

(1) Is it true that Mme. Lupescu wants to come to this country to have her face lifted? Answer: At no time has Mme.

Czech Envoy And Mme. Hurban To Be Honored

The Czechoslovak Ambassador and Mme. Hurban will be guests of honor at the United Nations Club dance Sunday evening in the Chauncey Depew home on Massachusetts ave. The use of the home has again been offered the club by the Texas Oil Co., the owners, and the weekly dances, begun the first of October, will be continued through November.

At the invitation of Ambassador and Mme. de Morgenstern, club members will meet at the Norwegian Embassy the evening of November 9. On November 21, the Netherlands chancery will be open to the club through the courtesy of Ambassador and Mme. Loudon, for a special preview of the Dutch film, "The Silver Fleet."

Iran, Central America and India, respectively, are to be honored at the United Nations Sunday dances on November 14, 21 and 28. Ranking diplomats of the countries will be invited.

Foreign language classes in Russian, French and Spanish are being formed and are open both to members and nonmembers. Miss Suzanne Rosenberg, AD. 0421, is handling arrangements.

Latin-American Program Planned

In a program of Latin-American music, Frederick H. Bloch will be presented by the Pan American Union, on Sunday, the third of a series of Sunday afternoon concerts for servicemen, Government workers and the general public.

The artist, a Czechoslovakian, studied in Paris and in Prague. When the war broke out he fled to Italy, where he temporarily worked in the museums of the Vatican, studying musical folklore. Later he went to Ecuador, where he taught at the Conservatory of Music in Quito and was finally appointed professor of the Central University of Ecuador. In that country he also directed cultural radio programs and did research work of Indian musical folklore. He specialized in collecting national and native music, ritual dances and is following the modern evolution of native music.

WPB Radio Speaker Informs Housewives On Whys of Conservation Program

By Peggy Preston

Explaining WPB conservation programs to housewives is something of a job.

The need for fat and tin salvage; the conservation of water, gas and fuel may be apparent to business concerns, but Mrs. Jones of Kokomo is apt to think it all a lot of useless regimentation thought up by those "men in Washington." Since Mrs. Jones and her tribe form the most important link in any salvage campaign, WPB decided a year ago to bring an interpreter into their Division of Information.

She is Alice Pentlorge, New York career woman, who contacts Mrs. Jones via radio stations, large and small, scattered all over the country. Miss Pentlorge has all the requirements for the job—a ready wit, an agile mind and a patient smile. She knows what to say to the woman who for one reason or accused of being arbitrary by nature," she smiles. "Of course, I don't agree. I just think we like to have things explained to us. We all get the idea pretty clearly when told that two tin cans thrown away in every home in the Nation is like turning another tin mine over to the enemy."

Miss Pentlorge is in Washington temporarily. The New York radio job that she left is awaiting her return from Government service. A native New Yorker, she entered the field of radio seven years ago, because, as she puts it, "I like to talk and I like to write. Radio seemed the best outlet under those circumstances."

Has One Book To Her Credit

Prior to going into radio, Miss Pentlorge lived abroad for several years. There were three years in Switzerland, during which time she turned her hand to writing a book. Published in England, but not in America, her one and only effort along literary lines was done in collaboration with a retired Spanish diplomat. It is called "Memoirs of a Spanish Diplomat" and tells a story of Spain during the decade of the twenties.

You'll hear her voice frequently over the local radio stations in the coming weeks. Her current project has to do with the WPB conservation program. She'll be telling you exactly why you must turn that light off when you leave a room, why you must not let the faucet drip and why you must close the window when you leave a room. Merely to save water or electricity? Yes, but of even greater importance, she will point out, to conserve man-hours of labor and wear and tear on machinery. She'll tell the story so that Mrs. Jones will understand all the whys and wherefores.

Mrs. Miner at Home To Her Friends

A popular gathering spot in the late afternoon is Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner's pleasant drawing room in her apartment at 2101 Connecticut ave.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Miner was at home to a group of her friends, with her niece, Mrs. Sayre Macneil, visiting her from California, on hand to assist. Widow of an admiral, Mrs. Miner has many friends in the Navy set, some of whom were among the callers yesterday. There were also a number from official and residential society in the gathering.

MISS ALICE PENTLORGE

another has decided the whole salvage program is open to question.

"I tell them the story of that tin can or that can of fat," says Miss Pentlorge. "And it really is a pretty thrilling story . . . one that never fails to have the proper effect."

Miss Pentlorge has a wealth of factual knowledge at her finger tips when she tells her story over the air or before women's clubs. She relates how one tablespoon of fat saved from the night's meal will form the base for 73 inoculations for smallpox; how more of this grease, making a base for valuable sulfa drugs and medicines, saves the lives of men on the beaches of the Solomons or Italy.

She Officers

Practical Examples

She points out that without tin the Navy would have to be demobilized; that without the olive drab paint made from fat, seaplanes would be rendered useless, and that without tin cans the armies overseas would go without food.

All this and more goes into the story that Alice Pentlorge repeats day in and day out to housewives. "Women are often

Potatoes Tasty, Nutritious in Soup and in Balls

Abundant Potato Crop Offers Good Nutrition At Reasonable Cost

Remember last spring how scarce potatoes were? And many a person remarked, "Oh, what I would give for some potatoes!"

Martha Ellyn

Well, the picture is a much happier one now. You can have all the potatoes you want. Farmers were asked to increase production of potatoes this year. And produce potatoes—they have, to the tune of 360 million bushels. That's a lot of potatoes to be stored until consumed. So the Government has asked us not only to eat potatoes, but to store as many as possible in our homes. In utilizing the potatoes we relieve some of the pressure on less abundant foods.

The War Food Administration designated potatoes as the Victory Food, October 21 to November 6. But when Saturday, November 6, rolls around, it doesn't mean that we are to stop eating and buying potatoes. Potatoes are a valuable food. Under and within the jacket of the Irish potato are important foodstuffs—vitamins, minerals and vegetable protein, and because they are a starchy vegetable they are a good energy food.

We should use potatoes wisely to get the best from them. So bake them, boil them in the jackets and eat the skins. Pare them just before they are to be cooked. Never, never soak potatoes in water, if you do you will lose vitamins and minerals.

You can't do better by potatoes than to bake them and then

Send baked potato soup to the table in grandma's soup tureen. If you have old pepper shakers, fill them with paprika, cayenne and red pepper, then each person can season to taste. America grows her own supply of these capsaicums.

MASHED POTATO BALLS

Prepare mashed potatoes, but use milk sparingly. Then roll the potatoes into balls. Dilute 1 egg with 2 tablespoons water. Roll the balls in the egg and then in crushed cornflakes. Place them in a greased pan. Bake them in a moderate oven, 375 degrees, until they are well heated, or fry them in deep fat until brown.

Another way to prepare mashed potato balls is to bake them by the following recipe:

BAKED MASHED POTATO BALLS

Prepare 2 cups well-seasoned mashed potatoes. Beat in 2 egg yolks and 1 tablespoon chopped parsley. Cool these ingredients slightly. Beat until stiff 2 egg whites. Fold them lightly into the potato mixture. Bake the potatoes in lightly greased muffin tins or drop them on a greased sheet. Bake them in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, until they are crisp. Turn them so they will brown evenly.

Dinner Menu

Baked Potato Soup
Toasted Garlic Loaf
Green Salad Bowl

Baked Apples Beverage
Get a loaf of French bread, slice it, rub with garlic, spread with fortified margarine and then toast. And if you want to lift a baked apple to new heights, stuff with peanuts, brown sugar and a flavoring of anise or allspice. And now for the soup.

BAKED POTATO SOUP

Split 3 baked, mealy potatoes, take out the pulp, mash and whip well with 3 tablespoons hot milk. Cook 2 thin slices onion in 2 tablespoons fortified margarine. Add mashed potatoes and onion to 1 quart well-seasoned chicken stock. Beat 1 egg yolk and add a little of the hot soup, stirring until smooth, then add 1/2 cup cream or rich milk and combine with the hot potato and chicken mixture. The soup must not boil after the egg yolk is added. Season well and garnish with chopped parsley.

You will find this a simple dish to prepare. And it is inexpensive if made with bouillon cubes. Serves four.

If you want to cook potatoes in advance and reheat when ready to serve, you will find mashed potato balls with cornflakes a delicious and ready way to prepare them.

Cottage Cheese

Successfully Made In the Home

Since cottage cheese has joined the list of vanishing foods, many persons, especially mothers of babies, are becoming concerned about the lack of it.

Cottage cheese can be made at home, either with or without the use of junket tablets. Following are recipes for making it by both processes.

COTTAGE CHEESE
Beat very slowly 1 quart sour milk to lukewarm over warm water and turn into a strainer lined with cheesecloth. Pour over 1 quart warm water and as soon as water has drained through, pour over another quart; then repeat. Gather cheesecloth around curd to form a bag and let bag hang until curd is free from whey. Moisten with melted butter and cream, sweet or sour. Add salt to taste.

If you want to make it by the junket tablet way, use this recipe: Heat one quart sweet milk to lukewarm and add one junket tablet reduced to a powder. Let stand in warm place until set. Beat with fork to break curd, turn into bag made of cheesecloth and let hang until whey has drained from curd. Then proceed as the directions given above.

Nelson B. Bell About the Showshops

'Phantom of the Opera' At Best in Third Version

THE STORY of "The Phantom of the Opera," of course, is a familiar classic to the seasoned picturegoers, who have known it down the years from its first production in 1925, through its second in 1930, to a present third visualization which yesterday took possession of the screen at RKO-Keith's Theater, with Nelson Eddy, Susanna Foster and Claude Rains in the stellar roles.

They will find freshness and a measure of novelty, nevertheless, in the splendid balance of music and melodrama and the opulent Technicolor embellishment that mark the current rehabilitation of the me-honored "thriller." First made famous by Lon Chaney, pere, in its present manifestation furthermore, the piece has been splendidly cast down to its smallest role whether singing or acting, both, and tightly and skillfully directed by Arthur Lubin. The result is a unique entertainment effectively blending the extremes of dramatic expression.

Filmed in natural color it is a constant delight to the eye, many of the scenes at the Paris Opera presenting panoramas of spectacular splendor wholly justified by the nature and the movement of the play.

As must be known to everyone by now, the major part of the action takes place in the vast opera house, where a veteran violinist, who has secretly fostered the career of a promising young prima donna, is discharged from the orchestra and launches himself on a career of murder to achieve the ends he no longer can accomplish from income. The operatic sequences, during which most of the rimes are committed, are legitimately introduced and staged on the grandiose scale commensurate with the requirements of grand opera. When the story of crime leads to the subterranean passages under the giant opera house, there is a suggestion of the eerie qualities that mark the passages in "Les Miserables," dedicated to the labyrinthine mysteries of "the sewers of Paris." These episodes, however, apply only the climactic periods of the story and are no more than incidental to many other stirring incidents that set off the magnificence of the opera house, its maze of flylofts and backstage corridors, the foyers, lounges and dressing-rooms, all made the setting of interesting and exciting developments. Altogether, a superlative example of closely integrated and compelling picture-making.

Claude Rains, in the title role, contributes a telling portrayal of a gently ominous "Samaritan" driven mad by the perversity of an kindly fate and finally doomed by the concerto that might have brought him fame and fortune. But it is the combined vocal brilliance of Susanna Foster, Nelson Eddy and Jane Farrer that gives "Phantom of the Opera" its most valid claim to eminence. They bring rare beauty to "Lullaby of the Belles," the Russian "Le tance de Caucasic," the interval of French Opera and the third act "Martha," which comprise the operatic interludes so vital to the plot and the enjoyment of discriminating music lovers. A large and well-trained chorus supports the singing stars, among whom Tudor Williams and Anthony Marlow deserve to be included. Mr. Eddy shares with Edgar Barrier such honors as there are in romantic comedy vein that threads the narrative. Mr. Barrier, by way, is a newcomer whose performance as Daubert, inspector of Surete, seems to insure his screen future. Roles of lesser consequence are excellently played by Leo Carrillo, J. Edward Bromberg, Fritz Feld, Frank Puglia, Barbara Everest, Fritz Leiber and numerous others of note.

"Children of Mars," the "This Is America" issue having to do with juvenile delinquency and invading Washington's Doctors Hospital or some of its scenes; "The Old Army Game," a Disney Donald duck cartoon in color and an exceptionally interesting release of the News complete a bang-up bill.

Young Ideas, Tommy Riggs Combine Nicely at the Capitol

By Marjorie Kelly.

Sophisticated, yet warm-hearted, and very funny indeed is the farcical comedy "Young Ideas," which opened yesterday morning at the Capitol, along with a stage bill, followed by Tommy Riggs and his Grainsy girl-friend, Betty Lou. "Young Ideas" is reminiscent of the "Male Animal" and "Vivacious," two earlier comedies which lived their highly civilized hours from the behavior of a college rector in love, and from the ics and dilemmas into which retreating, quiet personality got when he tried to cope with passion for an unacademic lady. "Young Ideas" has a fresh angle, though. The lady in question, played by Betty Lou, is a widowed dress, who has two bossy on-up children, charming kids, a bit too big for their britches, adores them and lets them dictate to her and manage her life. When she gets a whirlwind relationship, she marries a chemistry fessor and settles down in the college town where he lives. The kids feel this provincial life will end their mother's ling career, and descend upon town prepared to carry her off New York with them. But she it go.

LEONARD LYONS Gossip From Gotham

New York, Nov. 4.

Cordell Hull, who has just fulfilled a historic mission, once attended an international conference in London, where two of the delegates — from Czechoslovakia and Japan — were bewildered by Hull's strange, Tennessee accent. They listened to the Secretary of State and then the Czech delegate asked the Jap delegate: "Is he speaking French or English?" "Frankly, I don't know," replied the Jap. "But we'll know in a few minutes from the translator. If it's translated into French, then Mr. Hull is speaking English. If it's translated into English, then he is speaking French."

Monday night a revival of "Petrified Forest" was presented at the New Amsterdam Roof. Because the theater has been dark for many years, no floor plan existed, and tickets were based upon a rough sketch of the orchestra seating-plan. All the center aisle tickets were printed for the right side, and all the right-side tickets were printed for the left side. . . . When Frank Sinatra sang for the W VES at the SSS Hunter, he was disappointed at not hearing any enthusiastic applause. The commandant then told the girls: "Remove your gloves." After that, the deluge. . . . Admiral Rosendahl visited the Capacabana, and requested Joe E. Lewis to sing his famous Pants-Two-Long song. "I'm tired of hearing myself sing it," Lewis stated. Rosendahl insisted: "But I want to hear it, even if you don't." Lewis therefor sang it while wearing earmuffs.

Coming "BATTLE OF RUSSIA"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

HARD-BOILED MEMBERS of the Diplomatic Corps, whose countries' lives hung in the balance at Moscow, have microscopically examined the texts and come to certain definite conclusions. These are:

1. Moscow achieved more than the diplomats expected, but less than the window-dressing has now led the public to believe.

2. The word "finis" was written under the Baltic states—Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia. Though not mentioned in the texts, they will be taken over by Russia.

3. Poland's future will depend entirely upon how far it is willing to cooperate with Russia. If it plays ball, Poland can live peacefully beside Russia as a cooperating Slav state. If it doesn't play ball, it will be largely gobbled up.

4. Although no definite agreements were reached on many things, machinery was organized for future agreement. This may be most important of all.

Difficult problems have to be threshed out gradually and the proof of the pudding is in the eating.

Baltic States Disappear

READING BETWEEN THE LINES and piecing together the diplomatic grapevine, reports leaking back from Moscow, diplomats have arrived at the conclusion that Stalin took exactly the same stand regarding the Baltic states as he has in the past—that the Baltics were no more up for discussion than is the return of Texas, Arizona, New Mexico and California to Mexico. The Baltic states, according to the Soviet view, were carved out of the old Russian Empire when she was prostrate and helpless during the last war, and were deliberately constructed by British imperialists in order to shut Leningrad off from the sea.

Stalin has made it clear that he would no more permit foreign states along the Gulf of Finland than we would permit small independent republics to be set up in Connecticut and Long Island guarding the entrance to New York Harbor.

As reported in this column in the spring of 1942, Molotov secured an agreement from the British at that time for the return of the Baltic states and one-half of Poland to Russia. But the United States objected. Diplomats now conclude that at Moscow Secretary Hull withdrew that objection and fell back on the United States declaration at Riga of April 6, 1922, when the Baltic states were first recognized. It was then said:

"It is entirely possible or even probable that some time in the indefinite future these so-called states may once again become an integral part of Russia."

Poland's Position

MOST SIGNIFICANT PORTION of the Moscow pacts, and the only one signed by Stalin, Roosevelt and Churchill, was regarding punishment for atrocities.

Buried in the text of this agreement is an insignificant ap-

Mine Union Friction

Current rumors are that John L. Lewis and his daughter Kathryn have had a falling out. These are untrue. But it is true that there has been friction inside the United Mine Workers revolving around Miss Lewis.

John L. Lewis' son, John, is like his mother—quiet, amiable. Lewis' daughter Kathryn is like herself—aggressive, opinionated. She loves and worships her father, never could quarrel with him. But she has had violent rows with Ora Gassaway, former president of District 50, the catch-all branch of the United Mine Workers, which organizes chemical workers, dairy farmers, etc.

Gassaway is an old coal-mine mule driver, who like Lewis, boasts that he once knocked out a mule with a blow of his fist.

Gassaway has had several rows with Kathryn. He went into tantrums, complained that while he was supposed to be the head of District 50, Kathryn Lewis was the real head.

"She dictates those letters and makes me sign them," he complained.

After one row, Kathryn took a "sabbatical" leave in Taos, N. Mex., staying away from Washington for some time. On another occasion, Gassaway walked into her office and let loose a string of epithets, following which she took another leave and was retired for "ill-health."

Army Newspaper Opposes Proposal For Home Leave

With the Fifth Army in Italy, Nov. 4 (AP).—The Army's combat division of the Stars and Stripes opposed today the suggestion that experienced American troops be given home leave, saying "it would be foolish to throw away all the battle experience picked up by our veteran troops at so bloody a cost."

"We all want to go home," an editorial said. "The Americans, the British who have been in the war for four long years, the Russians who are so near yet so impossibly apart—and even our enemies, the Germans, want to go home."

"There are other reasons for this show of opposition to the talk of those Washington gentlemen who have just returned from their tour of the foxholes. Ask us for an editorial and we will tell you whether the men go home before this job is done we would say yes, on one condition—that we resurrect the honored dead and take them with us."
